The latest political science release by Glen Davis. This book includes a copy of two historically significant documents; The Communist Manifesto and The Prince. Added are Glen's commentaries on the communist party members of the United States who have incorporated the concepts from the Manifesto into our laws. He explores the "loopholes" in the Constitution that the government has exploited to exert all manner of control over the American people. Like George Washington, Glen urges Americans to go beyond the party rhetoric and explore both sides of any argument. In other words, think for yourself. Don't let politicians who are out for their own gain do the thinking for you.
